

Interpreting a Sentence Completion Form (SCF)

LDP Essentials webinar series

The first task in co-creating a great LDF debrief experience is making sense of the client's own sentence completions

It's helpful to regularly refresh and deepen your skills and confidence in client SCF analysis to:

- Co-create more impactful debriefs
- Grow in confidence and fluency when debriefing clients
- See the LDP framework afresh, in new practical ways

Webinar sessions

Purpose: To develop confidence and refresh skills in understanding and interpreting SCFs

Objectives: To see what's there in an SCF more fully and deeply to accurately locate what's most relevant for your client.

Process: Focusing on 'making sense of a person's sense-making,' ...
Diving into sentence completion forms as a group ...
Exploring different SCFs across the developmental spectrum ...

"If you have attended a 3-day Harthill Authorisation Intensive, you will know the extraordinary depth, richness and developmental implications in an SCF. An SCF is a client's own words, revealing subtle meaning-making processes. Extracting that value is a subtle skill. It requires practice, coaching, discussion, and opportunities to explore. It helps to share practice. To refresh and enrich your understanding, we recommend joining one of our LDP Essentials webinar series."

To support your continuing development, Online LDP Essentials are interactive, convenient, and accessible resources for practitioners to enhance their LDF/LDP practice with Harthill's support.

Each series focuses on a specific aspect of work with the LDP. They also come with the most up to date materials to support leading-edge developmental practice with your clients.
